10. CASE STUDY :

Alexis is a fitness enthusiast and a recent college graduate. She wants to start her own business that aligns with her passion for fitness. After conducting market research, she identifies a gap in the fitness industry - there is a lack of personalized fitness subscriptions that cater to individual needs. She decides to start a fitness subscription box business that offers personalized fitness products and workout plans.

Alexis conducts a thorough market analysis to determine the feasibility of her business idea. She researches the current fitness industry and discovers that there is a growing trend towards personalized fitness subscriptions. Customers are becoming more interested in personalized fitness products and workout plans that cater to their individual needs. Alexis also identifies a target market of fitness enthusiasts who are willing to pay extra for personalized fitness products and workout plans.

Alexis creates a comprehensive business plan that outlines the following:

Business objectives : To create a fitness subscription box business that provides a personalized fitness experience while promoting health and wellness.

Target market : Fitness enthusiasts who are interested in personalized fitness products and workout plans.

Marketing strategy : Alexis plans to market her business through social media, influencer partnerships, and online advertisements. She will also participate in local fitness events and sponsor community initiatives.

Operations : Alexis will work with fitness experts and nutritionists to create personalized workout plans and nutrition guides. She will also source high-quality fitness products to include in her subscription boxes.

Financials : Alexis estimates that she will need $50,000 to start her business. She plans to finance this through a combination of personal savings and loans. She projects that she will break even within the first year and achieve a profit of $75,000 within three years.

Implementation : Alexis secures a location for her business and partners with fitness experts and nutritionists to create personalized workout plans and nutrition guides. She sources high-quality fitness products to include in her subscription boxes and creates a website and social media accounts to promote her business.

Results : Alexis's fitness subscription box business is a success. She attracts a loyal customer base of fitness enthusiasts who appreciate the personalized fitness experience that her business offers. She also receives positive reviews and referrals from satisfied customers. Within the first year, she breaks even and achieves a profit of $75,000 within three years, as projected in her business plan.

Answer the following Questions :

- a) What gap in the market did Alexis identify?
- b) What were some challenges that Alexis faced during the implementation of her business plan and how did she overcome them?
